

Mrs. Kathy Mumper
Fifth Grade Teacher

Kathy Mumper (fifth grade homeroom/religion, math, and English) graduated from Edgecliff College in Cincinnati with degrees in Elementary Education and Psychology and taught second and third grades at St. Elizabeth School in Norwood before temporarily leaving teaching to raise her family. Upon her return, she has taught junior high religion, math, and language arts at Our Mother of Sorrows School in Roselawn and Sts. Peter and Paul School in Reading before joining the SGS faculty in August of 2007, where she has taught sixth, seventh, and eighth grade English for three years and currently teaches fifth grade religion, math, and English. She loves teaching here and is especially proud to moderate and coach the Power of the Pen Team, which has been quite successful these past three years.
